Appeal For JFK Library Funds Made Here Today

"Appreciation for the broad and purposeful effort he added to American civilization can be shown by making contributions to the Kennedy Memorial Library Foundation of Kentucky," Mrs. Paul Westpheling, executive director of the organization, reminded Kentuckians today.

"While the solicitation for funds among school children earlier this year was extremely successful, Kentucky is a long way from meeting its $150,000 quota to help build the Kennedy Memorial Library at Cambridge, Mass.," the Fulton newspaper editor said.

Meanwhile, former Governor Bert T. Combs, chairman, and William T. May, president of the Kennedy Memorial Library in Kentucky, added their appeals for contributions to the Kentucky quota. They also announced that a formal dinner honoring Jacqueline Kennedy and other members of the Kennedy family and trustees of the National Library Foundation is being planned for late December. Invitations to Mrs. Kennedy, Senator-elect Robert F. Kennedy, and others will be extended this week.

Contributions for the Kennedy Memorial Library Foundation in Kentucky may be sent to former Governor Combs at 227 W. Main St., Frankfort.

"The late President's dynamic spirit and his high standards in government will live forever in the establishment of the Kennedy Memorial Library. All Kentuckians can feel that they helped to perpetuate this spirit by making contributions to the library fund," Combs said at Lexington, after viewing many of the memorial services commemorating the first anniversary of the death of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas November 22, 1963.

Jo's Notebook

Driving home from Frankfort last Saturday, after having been away for almost a week, I had a lot of time for thinking since it takes little effort to drive along those magnificent stretches of highways now in use in Kentucky. As I drove along I sort of chuckled to myself when I tried to figure out whether I was the biggest fool in the world or the most tenacious public servant in this neck of the woods. I don't mean public servant from the standpoint of being lofty, I mean I'm just a worker in the public domain.

What brought about the chuckles though is that I had been away from home all that time, worked like mad every day, and still didn't work on a single, solitary thing that benefitted the Fulton County News, or the Westphelings, personally. After reviewing my activities for the time away from home I could hardly believe this was true until I went over my activities day, by day. Here's what happened!

I left home about 3:30 p. m. Monday, November 16. I arrived in Louisville about 7:30 p. m. and checked in at Stouffer's Motor Inn. (You should try that place sometimes . . . it's great.) As soon as I got squared away I called some friends in Louisville to see if a big name band could appear in Paducah around Christmas-time. A group there is trying to raise some money for a Children's Home and felt that the personality I was trying to get would raise some real money.

Tuesday morning I attended the dedication of the marvelous new Birth Defects Center at General Hospital in Louisville. I am on the State Board of the National Foundation for the March of Dimes and also special advisor to the Birth Defects Center. This later assignment I cherish, for I feel it is the nicest honor I ever had. The center was endowed with a grant from West Kentucky Chapters of the March of Dimes and I am especially proud because your dimes and dollars helped to make it a reality.

I feel that the special advisory post is an honor because ten other people on the five-member board are: Dr. Carroll Witten, chairman of the Center and a prominent Louisville physician; Dr. Frank Faulkner, chief of Pediatrics at the University of Louisville; Dr. Donn Smith, Dean of the University of Louisville Medical School and chief of staff at General Hospital and Mr. Barksdale Roberts, chairman of the Jefferson County Chapter of the March of Dimes. I'm not a very "special" advisor, but I certainly have the honor of working with some mighty special people.

After the dedication (by Mrs. Frances Breathitt, the Governor's wife) we went to a small luncheon, where Governor Breathitt joined us. I spent Tuesday afternoon in Louisville discussing plans for this year's March of Dimes drive of which former Governor Combs is State chairman. I am on the planning committee.

Late Tuesday afternoon I drove over to Frankfort to be the "houseguest" of my friend Mrs. Ellis Merrifield and her mother Mrs. Francesca Morse who is recuperating there from recent surgery. Visiting with them made (Continued on page eight)

Mental Center To Be Named For Kennedy

Governor Edward T. Breathitt announced yesterday that a new center for the examination and diagnosis of mentally retarded children is to be built at Frankfort and called the John F. Kennedy Center.

Breathitt said the center would be on the grounds of Kentucky State Hospital and School, an institution for the mentally retarded, and would offer diagnostic equipment and personnel not now available.

About People and Things

You have heard the phrase often that with the growth and expansion of modern communications, this world is getting smaller and closer together all the time. By the same media, the fame and the name of our twin cities grows with each passing day. Like many of you who travel around, we never venture outside of this county but that somebody doesn't want to know more about our Banana Festival.

Last week in Louisville we had the pleasure of being the luncheon companion of Dr. Donn Smith, dean of the University of Louisville Medical School, who is also Chief of Staff of General Hospital there. In spite of the fact that we were gathered for an exciting new venture into medical research, Dr. Smith wanted to talk about our Festival. He told us that the Monday after the Festival he was in Denver, Colorado with some colleagues when CBS reported this year's Festival. Knowing that he was from Kentucky Dr. Smith's friends plied him with questions about the Festival and with the usual remark: "A Banana Festival in Kentucky?"

Dr. Smith was mighty chagrined that he wasn't able to tell his friends more about us, but he added: "You make reservations for me now, for I'll be there next year and bring some Latin-American friends with me." His Latin-American friends will be deans of medical schools from abroad with whom the American deans share a common interest.

The quiet-spoken Dr. Smith was extremely impressed with our "Project-United Us" and told of a (Continued on page eight)

Mayor DeMyer, City Commission Lend Full Support To Friendship Center

A ten-member Latin-American Friendship Center Authority, that will also contain six ex-officio members, will be appointed by Fulton's civic-minded Mayor and City Commission at an early date. Viewing the instances where other communities are applying for, and receiving grants and loans for the establishment of civic and recreation centers, the Commission instructed City Attorney James Warren to prepare an ordinance to set up the legal procedure by which the proposed authority can make applications to the various Federal agencies and philanthropic foundations.

A list of ten local citizens, representing a cross section of business, cultural, industrial, and civic segments of the community was presented to the Commission as suggestions for making the appointments to the Authority. Also suggested to serve as ex-officio members of the Authority were: Ralph Lally, president of the National Banana Association; Mayor of Fulton Gilbert DeMyer; Kentucky Commissioner of Public Information Cattle Lou Miller; Kentucky Commissioner of Commerce

Katherine Peden; the presidents of the International Banana Festival Association and the Fulton-South Fulton Chamber of Commerce.

The ordinance is expected to be presented to the next meeting of the Fulton City Commission. When approved the Commission will appoint the members of the Authority, who will then meet to elect officers.

The idea for a beautiful civic center, with the architecture and the functions designed to place emphasis on making friendships with the banana-producing countries of Central America, came about as a result of the highly successful Banana Festival this year. While the need for a civic center has been evident here for many years, it became more so during the festival when many of the events were scheduled in various places around the city, some of them outdoors, subject to the hazards of the weather.

The idea was discussed with Undersecretary of State for Political Affairs Averell Harriman when he attended the Festival this year. Mr. Harriman, as well as the Ambassadors and representatives of several foreign countries, endorsed the idea and offered assistance in whatever manner they could.

Kentucky Governor Edward T. Breathitt, has offered the services of his office and staff in the local effort. Many programs and activities that would bring understanding, friendship and even trade relations with Latin-American countries will be incorporated in the over-all functions and design of the Friendship Center.

Meanwhile a letter comes to us from the Ecuadorian Embassy in Washington. We were so sorry to learn that Dr. Jose Correa, who attended our Festival has gone back to his country. He left behind him in Washington, and Fulton, many warm friendships, and an understanding of his country that cannot help but be beneficial to all its citizens. Here's the letter:

Dear Mrs. Westpheling:

Your letter addressed to former Ambassador Dr. Jose A. Correa, who left for Ecuador early this month, has been referred to me.

I had the opportunity to speak with Ambassador Correa before he left, and I know how overwhelmed he was by your courtesy and by the great success of the International Banana Festival.

I have read with interest the newspaper you sent and find the story on the future Latin American Friendship Center of Fulton County, Kentucky a project which is very appealing and which I am sure it will receive the support of the Latin American countries, as it will strengthen the friendship ties and will develop a better understanding among our nations.

I will take this opportunity to inform you that the Government of Ecuador has appointed as Ambassador in Washington Mr. Gustavo Larrea. Ambassador Larrea, I am sure, will be very interested in this project. Please let me know when you are going to visit Washington in order that I may arrange a meeting with Ambassador Larrea.

Looking forward in seeing you. Sincerely yours, (Mrs.) Piedad de Suro Cultural Attache

Christmas Club Checks Put $75,000 In Motion

Christmas shopping got an early boost this week when both local banks mailed out Christmas Club checks totalling more than $75,000.00. With the total slightly lower than last year, officials of the Fulton Bank and the City National Bank indicated that more than 1100 members in both banks will have that extra cash to spend at Christmastime . . . an event they prepare for by saving large and small amounts each week all year.

With more than a billion and a half dollars released nationally from the Christmas Club surveys show that the total will be used in the following ways:

Christmas Purchases, $472,158.300; Savings and Investment for future use, $661,021,620; Taxes, $267,556,370; Year-end Bills, $78,693,050; Miscellaneous, $94,431,660.

The new clubs started in both banks on Monday of this week. The Christmas buying spree broke out just before the Thanksgiving holidays in Fulton and this week local merchants are being kept busy with shoppers eager to have first choice in selecting their gifts from the many beautiful items in the stores downtown.

Fulton merchants are enthusiastic about the prospects that sales will push the year's dollar volume to a new record.

The rising economy sparked the hopes for sweeter-than-ever music by cash register bells. Christmas buying will tell the year's story for the retail industry because merchants usually expect to get almost 20 per cent of their total business from that source.

Don't Ask Best Way To Travel At The Glenn Dunn House This Week

If you stop by the Glenn Dunn household this week, don't make the fatal mistake of asking the best way to travel! If you do, you're liable to get involved in a family fracas, for there are four people there who would rather fight than switch from their favorite transportation.

It isn't often that all four of these people get together at one time, but when they do, they talk with "vigilance" of travel by land, by air and by sea. Their ages range from, well somewhere in the seventies maybe, to somewhere in the twenties, but each of them has seen some mighty changes in the way people keep moving in this country and abroad. And no wonder . . . their service spans three generations.

Clint Maxfield, the eldest of the travelling four, is a retired Illinois Central Railroad engineer. He retired as a passenger train engineer in December, 1960 after having worked for the IC for 55½ years. Starting out on the St. Louis Division in 1905 he has been a part of railroading from the time the old "moguls" were in operation that pulled a maximum of 35 cars, to the giant diesels capable of pulling more than 300 cars.

His daughter, Marian joined Trans-World Airlines in May of 1953 boarding a DC-4 in Chicago to Philadelphia for her very first plane trip. After four weeks of "book training" she started her duties on a 72-passenger plane that served only coffee, tea or soft drinks as luxury service. Now she travels on a Boeing 707-131 B, which carries 136 passengers, serves a seven-course dinner with Swedish Crystal and Royal Dalton china, and shows first run movies.

Clint's son-in-law, Glenn Dunn (married to the former Helen Maxfield) has his store of comparisons about progress, but with Clint and Marian around he has

Lt. (JG) Bobby Dunn, is the youngest member of the "transportation" clan, even though the United States Navy does most of the scheduling for him. But "sailing the waters blue," is mighty fine travelling the Naval officer says.

Here are some statistics compiled by the News' Department Of Travel Information:

Father, daughter and son-in-law have accumulated at least nine million miles of travel working at their respective jobs. Clint Maxfield, the father, now retired as a railroad passenger engineer, accumulated nearly two and a half million miles of travel over his 55½-year-span with the Illinois Central railroad. Starting as a fireman for his first 5½ years, he averaged about 3500 miles a month for a total of 231,000 miles. Then graduating to freight engineer, he covered approximately (Continued on page five)

Postoffice Volume To Hit Record High, Treas Says

The Post Office Department is confidently predicting that the volume of mail during this year's Christmas rush will hit a record high. Actually, it is an easy prediction, because mail volume has been rising at a rate of nearly three percent a year for the past several years and this is most strongly reflected around the holiday season.

Well over twelve billion pieces of incoming and outgoing mail are expected to move through the system during December, with about ten percent of the year's mail moving in less than three weeks.

Joe Treas, Fulton postmaster, reports that public cooperation is one important reason that post offices around the country are able to handle this huge mountain of mail in such a short period.

Mr. Treas said, "Without the assistance of the public, we'd be in a jam. People who shop early and get their cards and parcels into the mails early make it possible for the holiday mail to be delivered on time. Imagine what it would be like if we were to get all holiday mails the last week before Christmas!"

In addition to early mailing, the postmaster has several other suggestions which will help the (Continued on page five)

KBA's Pious Defense Of Low Interest Rates On State Funds Discriminates Against Taxpayer

Last week in Frankfort we took time out from a busy schedule to attend a public hearing before the Kentucky Commission on Economy and Efficiency. There representatives of the Kentucky Bankers Association attempted to justify the ridiculously low rate of interest they have been paying on the state's $53,000,000 inactive bank accounts. Kentucky bankers, through their state organization have offered to increase the incredibly low rate (about one-half of one per cent) to three per cent on two-thirds of the amount stated above, while the other one-third should pay no interest at all.

Were it not for the dignity of the occasion we should have laughed out loud when we heard the KBA's executive secretary give the many reasons why the state's banks should get these deposits, indicating that it was almost a favor to the Commonwealth for the banks to accept them.

In a stellar performance that would put TV's Perry Mason to shame, KBA's Ralph Fontaine pointed out, among other things:

—That banks that carry state deposits enable said banks to lend more money, so that borrowers can buy more commodities, thereby increasing the sales tax money to the State;

—That farmers can borrow more money for needed equipment, improve their farm property, and even go out and buy more farms if they could get more money;

—That small "rural" banks need the deposits to operate; that without such deposits many of them could close;

—And that, and this is perhaps the most hilarious reason of all, more state funds in more banks, would enable banks to increase the volume of their loans and maybe decrease the usual six per cent interest charged for loans. This we want to see!

Either because he thought the members of the Commission were stupid, or asleep, Fontaine failed to mention that depositing idle State funds in favored banks, for many years at no interest at all, has been the most notorious political patronage pay-off by the State treasurer in the history of the Commonwealth. He also failed to point out that many banks in Kentucky get no state deposits at all, and that with the change of administrations in Frankfort sometimes these deposits are withdrawn, or increased, depending on the political support of the bank in question. We'd say that such a practice is not a very stable "stimulant to the economy" as Fontaine loudly proclaimed.

If we were to apply the state's handling of its idle funds to our business it would be comparable to the state storing about $150,000 of its paper stock and office supply inventory at our plant in Fulton. We could use this stock for job printing, and the office supplies for resale at a good mark-up. The money so derived from these sales could be used to discount our bills for other purchases, buy new equipment for cash, at a good discount, and generally operate our shop on the state's inventories.

And if the state needed its inventories we were using, it could give us ninety days to replace them; we could go out and borrow the money (at six per cent) but still be in the position of having made plenty of money on the state's "idle" inventories.

Don't misunderstand us. We're not opposed to banks getting state deposits. We're for it! A bank is a business just like ours, and must have a mark-up on its transactions for profit just as we have. But this business of getting operating capital for peanuts, as Ralph Fontaine and his association advocates, is bad business and a discrimination against the taxpayer.

In fairness to the banks it should be remembered that the state treasurer, not the banks, sets the interest which state funds are to draw. The state is earning about $296,000 this year. Under the proposal by the bankers, this would be increased to about 2 per cent, or around $1,060,500 a year.

While this would be roughly four times the interest the banks have been paying, they should be as generous with the state as with their other customers, and raise the rate to at least 3 per cent. Failing this, the state could do as any good businessman would do—shop around for the institutions that would pay them the going rate for such deposits.

Kentucky Benefits By Un'iring, Dedicated Leadership Such As Wilson Wyatt Provided

Business-wise, Kentucky is looking good these days. Unemployment is below the national average, industrial growth is above the national average, and throughout the State there exists an atmosphere of confidence, well-being and optimism. Things business-wise are going well, new industry continues to locate within the State, and the name "Kentucky" is happily coupled with a hundred things connoting personal pleasure, good business climate, growing all-around attractiveness.

An image like this is slow to form, slow to develop, and it doesn't happen accidentally.

And do you know one person-in the State to whom we give an awful lot of credit for helping develop it, and who worked like a tiger for four years helping present it to the Nation?

Wilson Wyatt!

We were great admirers and boosters for the Combs-Wyatt administration, and especially of Lt-Governor Wilson Wyatt. Having the good fortune to know him personally, and to serve with him on the Economic Development Commission, we knew him for what he really was: a dynamic booster for the State, an inexhaustible worker for anything that would improve the well-being of the State, and a gentleman with far-reaching contacts with business executives all over the nation. He laid out a program of business and industrial development in Kentucky and then tackled it with a zeal that often left his chief lieutenants sleepy-eyed and exhausted trying to maintain his pace. He worked at it hard... for all four years.

Programs such as the scope of Wyatt's don't root themselves overnight, and in general, his work cannot be fully appreciated 'til now, but it should be appreciated now.

But why, then, are we writing this? Mr. Wyatt isn't running for anything, and so far as we know, does not intend to be a candidate for public office again. We are writing it simply to put it on the record; to give credit where credit is due; to point out that recognition for a monumental lot of good work sometimes comes slowly to one in public life because the results are slow to emerge. In typical Kentucky political-campaign fashion, the grass-roots image of Mr. Wyatt was downgraded and mud-splattered by his opponents during his unsuccessful race for the Senate recently, much to our dismay. A close examination of actual facts would have revealed an entirely different picture.

Kentucky will continue its upward march under such men as Wilson Wyatt. We hope we see more of such men.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission
By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week, Chief Justice Joshua F. Bullitt of the Kentucky Court of Appeals and six other men, all of whom had been arrested in August by order of Maj. Gen. Stephen G. Burbridge, the Union Army's military governor of Kentucky, arrived at Louisville and revealed that they had been confined in a military prison at Memphis. When they were taken away from Louisville under guard in August, it had been announced that they were being sent by way of Memphis to a place where they would be passed through the lines and released to make their way to Confederate territory.

Bullitt and the other men—John Colgan, John Harris, Thomas Jeffries, H. F. Kalfus, M. J. Paul and John Talbott—had been charged with belonging to a secret political society called the "Sons of Liberty," which the Federal government considered subversive. They owed their release to Confederate Maj. Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, who upon learning that they were in the Memphis prison offered to exchange for them some Memphis citizens and some U. S. Army engineers he had captured in one of his raids.

George D. Prentice, editor of the Louisville Journal, a strong Union man who was credited with having been as influential as any other one man in keeping Kentucky in the Union, left Washington for Richmond, Va., to see what he could do for his son, Lt. Col. Clarence J. Prentice, Confederate States Army, under arrest for homicide. Both of Prentice's sons had gone with the Confederacy. The other, Capt. Courtland Prentice, of Morgan's cavalry, had been killed in battle at Augusta, Ky., in 1862. The editor had passed from both sides, to enable him to pass through the lines from one capital to the other. (Lt. Col. Prentice was acquitted on a self-defense plea; he survived the war and returned to Louisville.)

burg and Col. Wolford at Covington, both under arrest and, by order of the Secret Inquisition, ordered into the Rebel lines. Will you either order their release at once, or a suspension of the order until you receive my communication of this date?"

In the letter to Lincoln which followed his telegram, Bramlette said of Jacob and Wolford: "I speak what I do know when I say that they are both incorruptible patriots, and invincibly devoted to the preservation of the Union and the suppression of the rebellion... But I understand that affidavits made in some dark corner... by men who are afraid to avow their infamy in the face of an open tribunal, face to face with the men they accuse, constitute the foundation of their arrest."

"I say to you, Mr. President, that it is their accusers that shrink from the investigation, and not Lt. Gov. Jacob or Col. Wolford... Deeds of evil, done in the name of the government, which revolt the public judgment, are hurtful to our cause."

Some publicity outfit up in New York went to all the trouble to send us a letter this week telling us that Robert Goulet was going to be the star in the "Robert Goulet show".

Amazing, isn't it. I'm glad he is going to be featured in his own show; I wonder who else they may have had in mind.

Notes on the news: "Now", says the advertisement in the Memphis paper, "you can fly in a jet straight through from Atlanta to Europe. Why change planes?"

Amazing, isn't it, how people want to go so far in such a hurry.

One of these days we expect to find that a person can get in a jet and go clear around the world non-stop, alighting a few feet from where he started. And I suppose there will be a demand for this sort of thing.

I'm with the Cunard (steamship) line's slogan: Half the fun of the trip is getting there.

again to see it Saturday night, after having seen it Friday.

If you missed the show this year, don't miss it next time! The Club may bring it back for a re-tune engagement next fall.

After a period of quiet, Fulton again has an official noon-time signal: the fire siren began this week marking 12 o'clock with a short warm-up wail. Personally, we like a big bell, better, but it'll do until such time as somebody donates one for the cause.

Bell Buckle, Tennessee, settled in 1853, was named, according to legend, for the creek that runs through the town. The creek received its name because of a bell and a buckle that was carved on a large beech tree near the source of the stream. The carving is said to have been made by Indians or by one of the Long Hunters (a hunter who was away from home for exceptionally long periods of time). —Bel Tel News

No woman has ever been President—but a great many have become speaker of the house.

A lot of local people will remember Don Stephenson, the long, tall, likeable guy who was manager of the local Friendly Finance office several years ago. Don is now President of a Finance company in Jackson, Tennessee and has just been named president of the Tennessee consumer finance association.

People in this area received Census of Agriculture questionnaires during the past week. It is hoped by those who have been employed as enumerators that the questionnaires will be filled out as nearly as possible before December 2, at which time or soon after each farm will be visited and the questionnaires will be picked up and any needed assistance will be given. The questionnaire is not as long as it first appears, as only the questions that apply to each are to be answered. If attention is given to this previously, it will require only a short amount of time when the census taker calls.

Irvin Brundige, who was in the hospital due to a fall last week, is improving nicely at his home.

Mrs. W. C. Morrison has been dismissed from the Fulton Hospital, after being a patient there for five weeks following surgery. She is improving nicely.

Mrs. Ray Bondurant has sold her farm and will have a sale of farm implements, stock and some household goods next Saturday. She has bought a home in Fulton and will move there soon.

Mrs. Vascoe Simpson will have a cattle sale on Tuesday. Also, some farm implements will be sold.

Mr. and Mrs. Larrymore Taylor, from Piquette, Miss., visited Mr. and Mrs. Doy Taylor during last week end.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Royce Blackard, who died suddenly at his home in Detroit Friday night. His body is being returned here and will be buried at Oak Grove.

The Oak Grove congregation was fortunate to have Bro. Conrad Stein to preach there Sunday evening. Bro. Stein was in Freed-Hardeman College a few years ago and visited many congregations in this area. He returned to South Africa, after graduating from Abilene College, and has been preaching in Capetown for the past eight years. He is a most interesting speaker.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Morrison Sunday, November 22, to celebrate Mrs. Morrison's and her son James' birthdays were the following: Mr. and Mrs. James Morrison, Bernard and Bobby; Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Hazelwood, Shelia and Trema, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Craven, all of Martin; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Morrison and Mike, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Morrison and Billie Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Smith, Timothy and Jennifer of Memphis; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson, Donna and Jimmy of Union City; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Webb Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brown, Mrs. Maggie House of Duketown; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Williams of Fulton and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Williams.

Fulton's "Operation For Progress" Reveals Vital Community Programs

Fulton will compete in the First District annual "Operation for Progress" contest sponsored by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce community development program.

The report was mailed last Friday by Mrs. Cavita Olive, Chamber of Commerce secretary, to J. Foster Jones, chairman.

Judging will be at Kentucky Dam Village on Dec. 2-3, and the district winner will then compete with other district winners in the state competition. Fulton's report won the district competition last year.

Judging in the state contest will be held in Louisville in February.

A delegation from Fulton will attend the meeting at Kentucky Dam Village when the winning entries will be announced.

This year's report is broken down into three parts.

The first part consists of organization, planning, analysis and execution of the community program.

The second part deals with commercial area improvement and promotion. Fulton's report includes the Banana Festival, beautification of the retail area and new buildings for retail or wholesale.

Part three consists of recreation and travel facilities, development and promotion. New tourist facilities, development and promotion, community parks, plus a recreation program for senior citizens are included in the local report.

Part four is on a civic improvement program and Fulton's report on this includes the clean-up program, garbage control and sanitation.

South Fulton's Water System Is Rated Tops

South Fulton's water system is rated among the best in Tennessee according to a report released by the state Public Health Department. The system has been awarded 95 out of a possible 100 points.

Ratings are determined not only on water purity but also on such factors as sending a man to the Health Department water engineering sessions to qualify as a water plant engineer, providing a duplicate chlorinator in case of breakdowns, filing of monthly reports and having equipment to analyze water for impurities.

The health department report showed that 31 of the 73 public water supplies in West Tennessee fall below standards required for approval by the department, while 42 rated above the grade of 90 required for approval.

Mrs. Jim Burke Thanks Group For Cooperation

The regular November meeting of the Chestnut Glade Club was held in the home of Mrs. Myrtle Temple. The retiring president, Mrs. Jim Burke, read the thought for the day and expressed appreciation for the many helpful things done for her during her term as president. She then presented the new president, Mrs. Laverne Owensby. A gift from the club was presented to Mrs. Burke.

The devotionals were given by Mrs. Jim Hicks, the club song was led by Mrs. Myrtle Temple and the Club Creed was read in unison. Project leaders for the coming year were appointed.

Christmas decorations were shown and plans were made for decoration of tables for the Achievement Luncheon, which will be held at the Martin Elementary School cafeteria on December 5. A committee was appointed to prepare gifts for shut-ins. Mrs. Harvey Vaughan gave tips on home beautification, urging all to give attention to landscaping, in keeping with the modern homes.

Plans were made for the Christmas program, which will be in the home of Mrs. Jim Burke at 12 o'clock noon on December 17.

Following a period of recreation, directed by Mrs. Fred Vaughan, a delicious party plate was served to the members and to three guests, Mrs. Charles Ray, Mrs. Bob Fowlkes and Mrs. Hulbert.

hard-working postal employees move this avalanche of mail. First, he recommends using ZIP Codes, which help handle the mails faster because of a new transportation and distribution set-up. ZIP Codes also help clerks to identify receiving post offices when addresses are hard to read. During this time of the year, the faster mail is processed, the better chance it has to make connections with outgoing trains, planes and trucks.

"There are thousands of postal employees working day and night in post offices all over the United States to assure you a Merry Christmas. By your cooperation, you can help them and yourself to a more relaxed and happier holiday," Mr. Treas said.

DON'T ASK—

1,680,000 miles in the next 40 years on this job, averaging around 3500 miles a month. During the last two years of his job he piloted the crack I. C. passenger trains in the St. Louis district, accumulating around 540,000 miles on this job.

Marian Maxfield, his daughter, has flown over five million miles as a stewardess with Trans World Airlines . . . and is still flying. Her present "run" consists of seven round-trips monthly from Los Angeles to Boston—approximately 7,000 miles a trip—for an average monthly tally of 49 thousand miles a month. She has been in the TWA system all of the time, and has covered every part of it in her work during the past 12 years, as a stewardess.

Glenn Dunn, the son-in-law, has covered approximately 1,710,000 miles in his 28½ years with the Railway Postal service, and he is still at it, too. Glenn averages around 5,000 miles a month on his travel schedule.

Lt. Bob Dunn, U. S. Navy, continues the family tradition, in a different element, and at slightly reduced speeds. Where his grandfather ran a passenger train at speeds of up to 80 mph, and his aunt Marian flies at average speeds of 600 mph, Lt. Dunn cruises Atlantic waters with the U. S. Navy at average speeds of 15 knots, but nevertheless covers considerable distances in a year's time. He has been to the Mediterranean twice for duty with the Sixth fleet, and in the Atlantic with the Second fleet, and has just begun to log his travels. He was commissioned in December of 1962.

Wildcat Victory Over Vols May Bring Action By Breathitt For UK Stadium

Governor Edward T. Breathitt of Kentucky stood up and cheered like a schoolboy when Rick Kestner leaped high into the air in the end zone and made an almost impossible catch of a mile-long fling from Rick Norton to rack up Tennessee last Saturday 12-7.

He then sank back exhausted in a leather-cushioned chair in the 50-seat V. I. P. box on the second floor of the new press box in Bob Neyland Stadium and declared the time had come to talk seriously about a new athletic plant for the University of Kentucky.

Gov. Breathitt and his party were guests of Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee and Dr. Andrew Holt, president of the University of Tennessee. Around him were other Kentuckians, including Bob Hensley of Louisville. "There is no reason why Tennessee should have such a plant as this," he said, "while our boys and our fans have to settle for less."

"People talk about the future like they do about the weather, as if there is nothing they can do about it. But I am a believer that our future is now. It's action we need. Not talk."

"As chairman of the U. K. Board of Trustees, I will ask for a detailed study of the feasibility of placing a new Wildcat stadium and possibly a fieldhouse on university land out at the junction of the major highways now being built into Lexington—I-64, which will serve folks from the East and West, and I-75, which will bring them from the North and South. The Central Kentucky Turnpike will bring them from the Southwest."

The Governor said he has studied modern university facilities enough to feel assured the entire project could be self-financing, without cost to taxpayers or additional cost to students. Payments for parking would cover a surprising part of the cost, he said, and rental of dormitory rooms under the stands also might help.

Senior Citizens Hear Lamb In Veterans' Talk

Those who braved the inclement weather to attend the Senior Citizens meeting last Thursday at the First Methodist Church, were rewarded with a constructive program.

Mrs. E. W. Hart opened the meeting with a call to salute the flag. This was followed by a responsive Bible reading and prayer. She then conducted a brief business meeting. It was decided to have a work day soon after Thanksgiving. There will be no other meetings in December.

Robert Lamb gave a resume of World War I and its effects on the individual family as he remembers it. At the national level there were 65 million bearing arms, more than 8 million killed, 21 million wounded, and at a cost of 338 million dollars," he said.

Mrs. Nelson Tripp presented her music pupils in several numbers, stressing the patriotic theme. Those participating were Treva Lou Hedge, Randa Nabors, Patricia Holloway, Jan Bell, and LaDonna Carol Lawson.

Mrs. Clint Reeds, Mrs. C. W. Whitnel and Mrs. Fred Homra, from WSCS Circle Six, served refreshments of coffee, cake, and mints.

Rev. Charles Wall filled his regular appointment at Knob Creek Church of Christ the past Sunday. Bible study began at ten o'clock, with worship service held at eleven.

Mrs. Haldon Glover underwent major surgery at the Baptist Hospital in Memphis the past Friday. All friends here are extending get-well wishes that she will very quickly be restored to health.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harris are moving into their new home, recently built just east of our village. It is a modern three-bedroom brick and they are to be congratulated by their many friends.

Rev. Russell Rodgers filled his appointment at New Salem Baptist Church the past Sunday. Sunday School is held at 10, followed by service at 11 a. m. The evening worship is held preceding the Baptist Training Union.

The Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wess Jones was held at Jones' Store Saturday afternoon, with open house from 2 to 4 p. m. All the children of Mr. and Mrs. Jones were present, as were the grandchildren and other relatives. Many friends called with gifts and to extend good wishes to the popular couple. Refreshments were served to the entire group.

Grant Bynum and daughter, Margaret, were hosts to Sunday dinner this past Sunday, when the following enjoyed the repast: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bynum and children, Gloria Ann and Hall; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mathis and daughters, Sammie Jane, Liz and Becky Lynn.

Here's wishing The News, its staff, readers and friends everywhere a most happy Thanksgiving.

Wess Jones was stricken very ill last Saturday afternoon during the Golden Wedding celebration at the Jones' Store on State Line Road. He was rushed to the hospital in Fulton, where he is under treatment for pleurisy. We hope he will soon be restored and be out again.

We have reports from the bedside of Rev. J. Lawrence McClain that his condition remains about the same. He and Mrs. McClain left a few weeks ago for Union City to visit with their children, Mr. and Mrs. Bes McClain.

Mrs. Lexie Simpson is improving since her return from Obion County General Hospital, where she was under treatment for several weeks.

Quite a bit of tobacco was classed and stripped over this area during the rainy season last week, all the air-cured type. The dark-fired crops still remain in the barns.

First, let me say thanks for all cards sent me on my birthday.

The weather here is cold and about three inches of snow on the ground.

Our sick list: Mrs. Euna Rodgers, Mrs. Eva Mallard, Mrs. Esther Jones and Wilbur Byrne.

Thanksgiving Day will be a family reunion day at my house, with about 25 guests present to celebrate my birthday and our wedding anniversary, all in one week.

A speedy get-well to Herbert Goulder, who is in Hillview Hospital.

Mrs. Betty Bryant celebrated her birthday on November 18. She is past eighty years. Many

Your Wisest investment of time... REGULAR CHURCH WORSHIP

"I was glad when they said unto me: let us go into the house of the Lord."

What a Mess!

Sometimes the desire to run out the door and chuck it all is overpowering when we are confronted with the mess of an after-dinner table!

Sometimes, insight lets us see that our lives are quite a mess too. In fact, things seem such a jumble, that our reaction to this truth, if acknowledged, is, "What's the use?"

Well, of course, the only thing to do with the dishes is to take them to the sink, put them in hot water, and wash them with a good cleansing agent until they shine.

Less obvious, perhaps, is what to do with a messed-up life. We invite you to seek an answer in church this week. You are sure to find there the Power who will help you with your problems, a power who cares immeasurably for your soul.

"Casting all your care upon him, for he careth for you." I Peter 5:7

"And the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain." Isaiah 40:4b.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

all my "public service" endeavors worth every minute I devoted to them. Anyway Wednesday I went to Kennedy Library Headquarters and started work to complete plans for the drive, to meet Kentucky's $150,000.00 quota. Wednesday afternoon I took time out to go over to the Department of Public Information to work with them on editing some film taken during the Banana Festival for showing here sometime in January.

Thursday morning I checked in again at Kennedy Headquarters, taking time out periodically to check on the film's progress, call on John Wisman's office to get application forms, etc. to file for funds with which to establish the Latin-American Friendship Center here.

Friday morning I spent all morning with Parks Commissioner Bob Bell working out some problems and plans so that we can proceed with next year's production of "Stars in My Crown." By now you know that I am first vice-president of this non-profit organization. Friday afternoon I spent in Governor Breathitt's office, enlisting his help on next year's Festival and "Stars," getting some Kentucky Colonel's commissions and talking about the proposed site of the toll road that will come to Fulton.

Friday night I met with former Governor and Mrs. Combs and Mr. and Mrs. William H. May to work out plans for a formal dinner in December honoring Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy. Loaded with application forms, edited film, invitation lists for the Kennedy dinner... and a few personal belongings I headed for home.

My sojourn last week reminds me of a card that Paul has on his office wall. It says: "This is a non-profit organization... it wasn't meant to be... it just turned out that way." On many hectic days in my office Paul occasionally comes in and says politely, "Jo, can I bother you to stop a few of the things you're doing and work on the Fulton County News?" Sometimes I do!

But I love doing these things! I know I get criticized. I know I rush into some projects where angels fear to tread, but as long as my family doesn't mind I'll just go on the philosophy of Bert Combs... "I want to make some tracks to let people know I've been here."

ORONEL OTANO: That's not a typographical error, it's the way you spell Colonel in Spanish... and that's exactly what Jose Antonio Otano will henceforth be called for he is now a Kentucky Colonel. News Editor Jo Westpheling made the presentation to him on behalf of Governor Edward T. Breathitt.

program the 86 deans of medical schools in America share with a like number in Latin-America. "We decided," he said, "that getting to know people in foreign countries, and sharing interests with them, does more good than all the millions we can spend on high level diplomacy. Since our first meeting with our fellow medical men in Latin-American we are continuing the program by having our doctors go down there and practice for a while in Latin-America and also having their doctors come here to work with us. The results have been fantastic," he added.

Telling Dr. Smith of our proposed Friendship Center, Dr. Smith said: "You can count on us to have one of our meetings there," he promised.

When some of us look back on the Festival and remember all the hard work that was put into it, we think of Jose Otano as one of those unsung heroes. Among many things Jose served as interpreter for our visiting Latin-American friends besides translating all the mail that came written in Spanish. Jose and his interesting family have been in Fulton for about two and one-half years. They came here from Havana under the auspices of the First Baptist Church and all of them love Fulton as much as the natives do. This week Governor Breathitt rewarded Jose for his work in the Festival and for his love of Kentucky by making him a Kentucky Colonel. (See Cut.)

We always like to say something about all the wonderful people who come in the office from far and near to renew their subscriptions. This week the prize re-newer of all came in. Mrs. Edna Alexander paid for seven renewals and says as many, many people do: "It's the best present I can give them... they wouldn't miss it for the world!" Here are the friends who will visit with you and us for another year as they have been doing for a total of 56 years among them.

Mrs. Wesley Campbell, Akron, Ohio (6 years); Dalton Oliver, Akron, Ohio (11 years); Earl Oliver, Akron, Ohio (11 years); Mrs. Nell Taylor, Athens, Ga. (6 years); R. C. Alexander, Beverly Hills, Calif. (6 years); Kenneth Oliver, Devon, Pa. (3 years); Mrs.

Frank Haskell, Jr., Arcadia, Calif. (13 years).

Buell Williams of Lake Orion, Michigan, "swished" through our office Monday, and we use the word advisedly. Buell is in these parts visiting around with home folks and he said "walking all over the country-side around some of the old home places." The friendly gent said he didn't want to take much of our time, and really didn't, but he told us more in just a few minutes than a lot of people do in an hour... it makes us dizzy to keep up with his travels... but that man's moving. He and Mrs. Williams spent several weeks in California this summer... he went back home, left Mrs. Williams there teaching school, while he visits here and plans a trip to Florida, by way of Hot Springs, Ark. He travels in a giant trailer and will take his cousin Eva Williams along with him. The Buell Williams' have three sons; two in college and one in high school.

Here 'n there: Margaret Curlin (Mrs. Bill) having dinner at the Frankfort Country Club last Friday night asked to be remembered to all her friends here... Terry McDaniel arrived Tuesday from St. Louis to spend Thanksgiving with her mother Mrs. Ethel McDaniel... Mrs. Louise Childers has gone to East St. Louis to spend six months with her family... Mrs. Wood Brown was the winner of the beautiful TV set given away Saturday at the gala opening of the Hobby House... Fultonians gave a whopping $1,053 to Paducah Lions Club Telethon for crippled children... Congratulations to Linda Collier on the celebration of her sixteenth birthday; she was honored with a lovely party at the Park Terrace... the young people of the Union Cumberland Presbyterian Church honored Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cottrell with a testimonial dinner last Saturday... Bill was commissioned a Kentucky Colonel by Governor Breathitt... Mary Davis (Mrs. John) Dicken and young sons and Jane (Mrs. Matt) Deboor and children of Lexington were week-end guests here of their respective families... Elsie (Mrs. Louis) Weeks is recuperating at her home on Third Street from injuries received in a recent automobile accident... Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle Ridgway of St.

Louis are visitors in Fulton at the home of Mrs. Mace McDade.

Jack Wooten of Warren, Michigan corrected a "grave error" he said he made last year... he re-subscribed to the News, this week. Jack, who with his wife were visitors in Fulton for a few days, came in to pay for two years so "he wouldn't be without his paper again." Jack brought his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Wooten back to Fulton. They had been visiting with relatives in Michigan. Since he had not been a subscriber to the News when we published the Festival edition we gave him two copies as a new subscriber special.

Since there is no longer a Legion Post or Auxiliary in Water Valley, a number of the members have joined the Marshall Alexander Post and Auxiliary in Fulton.

Six ladies from Water Valley and one from near Wingo transferred their membership to the Fulton Unit at a meeting Monday night. They presented the Fulton Unit with some dishes and also with a check for $50.00, from the former treasury of the Water Valley unit. This money will be used to help purchase various items needed for the kitchen and for a piano.

The December meeting of the Post and Auxiliary will be held in the American Legion Hall. This will be the first meeting held there since the building was practically destroyed by fire several months ago.
